Washington Correspondents Fully Alive to Importance.

And now President Harrison is secused of another failing. It is gravely reported that he has no sentiment. Otherwise, it is claimed, he would ere this have given Robert Smalls, the colored ex-Congressman, a fat office. He had a good opportunity to do so on one of the anniversaries of a great event in Mr. Smalls' life, and failed to embrace it. Office seekers now in Washington are anxiously awaiting the return of Senator Quay.

ISPECIAL TRANSPAR TO THE DISPATCE. WASHINGTON, May 17.—This being Cabinet day, and a very hot Cabinet day, the aggregation of visitors at the White House was small and mainly uninteresting. The only Senator to appear on the scene was Mr. Evarts, who is so used to go to the White House on Cabinet days that he can't stay away, and is so spare in flesh that the hottest weather makes him shiver. He goes to see Mr. Harrison merely to suggest a possibility that he has some influence, but everbody here knows that Senator Hiscock is recognized as the Quay of New York. A very few Representatives strolled lazily to the white mansion glaring in the sunlight. Among them was Judge Bound, ex-Congressman of the Harrisburg District, who went to find out if he couldn't get a little comfort from headquarters in his pursuit of a Treasury appointment. Mr. Harrison received him kindly, but made no

The two appointments which excite most attention to-day are those of L. W. Habercorn and John R. Lynch, of Wisconsin and Mississippi, respectively, to the positions of Fifth and Fourth Auditors of the Treasury. Mr. Lynch is the colored ex-Congressman, and Mr. Habercorn is one of the ablest and most popular correspondents on "The Row." He has for some years resided in this city as a correspondent of the Milwaukee Herald and the St. Louis Westliche Post. During the campaign he was called to New York by Senator Quay to handle the German end of the work in New York, and so well did he do his duty that he got exactly what he asked-the Fifth Auditorship, which is worth $3,600 a year, without hard work.

Now that the President has begun dis-pensing favors to the colored men, by making Lyuch Fourth Auditor and Townsend Recorder of the Land Office, Captain Robert Smalls, of Beaufort, S. WASHINGTON, May 17 .- Since newspaper row visited Nacirema, the country seat of General Agnus, of the Baltimore American, the other day, the correspondents have waited an opportunity to give the General a grand send-off for a big office, though he is not seeking anything. As though by divine interposition, the chance came with the death of Mr. Allen Thorndyke Rice, and now nothing will satisfy "The Row" short of the appointment of General Agnus as Minister to Russia. It is safe to say that every person who enjoyed that day will support the new candidate, not even excepting Mr. Blaine, and as Mr. Harrison has a tender side for journalists, it may be possible that he will join the procession for Gen-

It is not often the boys of "The Row" take a hand in getting anybody into office. More frequently they find pleasure in knecking applicants out of the race. Each correspondent who knew him addressed a complimentary letter to the chief, and to-day carriages took a score or more of them to the Printing Office, where they took General Palmer by storm, and so overpowered him that he almost promised Mr. Louis promotion on the spot. It was an occurrence never before known in the history of "The Row," and all in the interests of a $1,400 employe who had impressed his personality, honor and high desert upon the correspondents.

So Long at the Capital. ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] WASHINGTON, May 17 .- Colonel Thomas P. Ochiltree, of Texas and New York, has been in Washington for the past fortnight, giving dinners at Chamberlain's, and with the aid of a pair of crutches visiting at the White House and in the departments. There has been much speculation as to the cause of the Colonel's prolonged stay at the capital. It was given out a day or two ago that he was to be appointed to a Federal office in Texas. This is probably untrue. The Colonel is seeking not an office, but a fortune. He filed a suit to-day against the District of Columbia, claiming a damage of $25,000 against a cab company for injuries to his leg while riding down Pennsylvania avenue in a coach on the 3d of March last.

It appears that the practice of the department has been to purchase supplies for the navy by advertisement at the beginning of each fiscal year, making the list of purchases extensive enough to cover the probable needs of the different bureaus during the entire year. Upon inquiry the Secretary learned that in making these purchases, regard was not had for the amount of stores on hand. This led to the accumulation of stores which in many cases rapidly deteriorated and caused

The Supreme Lodge Mukes a Change in th

Assessment Laws. INDIANAPOLIS, May 17 .- The Suprem Lodge Knights of Honor to-day discussed the advisability of ordering the supreme dictator to make an immediate extra assessment. The law of the order now provides that an assessment shall not be levied until the money in the treasury has been reduced to $2,000. A single assessment brings in the sum of $136,000, and it was argued that by keeping a large sum in the treasury and levying assessments before the funds run so low, benefits could be paid within ten days after the death of members. The resolution to order the assessment was lost, but another authorizing the supreme officers to order assessments whenever they think the good of the order demands them, was adopted. An effort was also made to change the law of the order so as to allow local lodges to choose their own medical examiner, but it failed. This evening the delegates to the lodge called upon the widow of the late Vice President Hendricks. They were courteously received and entertained

The Assassin Then Turned His Revolver Against Himself.

BOTH BULLETS FOUND THEIR MARKS. a Few Minutes.

A terrible double tragedy was enseted before the eyes of the little pupils of a Washington school yesterday. The teacher had declined to support her husband in idleness.

WASHINGTON, May 17 .- The little girls attending the third grade in the Jefferson Public School building, in the southern section of this city, were standing in the aisles of the schoolroom at 3 o'clock this afternoon, about to bid school goodby until Monday, when their teacher, Mrs. Sarah F. Allen, was fatally shot in their presence by her worthless husband, who then killed

Allen had been supported by the earnings of his wife as a school teacher until some time ago, when she left him on account of dissipation and frequent abuses and violence. He has annoyed and threatened her several times since she refused to have anything more to do with him, and she had been warned very recently to beware of him. This afternoon Allen hired a cab on Pennsylvania avenue, and told the driver he wanted to go to the Jefferson school

About 13 years ago, against the advice of her family and friends, she married her husband, Oswald C. Allen, who came from Charlottesville, Va. The marriage was an unhappy one, and Mrs. Allen frequently an unhappy one, and are, aren requently said that the only blessing resulting from it was the fact that no children were born to them. THE CHIEF DIAMOND MARKET. Amsterdam Holds the Belt and America

Its Best Customer WASHINGTON, May 17 .- United States Consul Eckstein, at Amsterdam, in a report to the Department of State on the manufactures of Holland, quotes at length from a statement made to him by the proprietors of one of the largest diamond-cutting estab-lishments in Holland. Amsterdam, the statement says, is still the principal market for cut diamonds, and it is unlikely that the market will be transferred to some other city in the near future, as the differ-ent qualities necessarily produced by the cutting of the rough stones find a better and more ready sale there than elsewhere, be-cause of the large number of foreign buyers who come to the city.

America, it is said, buys only the best articles. Europe comes next, with a demand for medium sorts, and the inferior goods are sold in the remaining markets.

A Dispute Over the Honor Results

CLEVELAND, May 17 .- Farrell J. Mo Carthy, a saloon keeper in Prospect street, met Ira C. Benton, a traveling salesman, in a drinking resort on Superior street this evening. They drank beer together, and then a dispute arose as to who should pay for it. The men agreed to step into a paved court back of the saloon to settle the controversy.

McCarthy struck Benton while proceeding to the place where the fight was to occur and Benton fell to the ground. McCarthy sprang upon him, pounding him in the face, kicked him on the head and in the stomach. He then walked away. Benton was immediately taken to a hospital, where he died. McCarthy is in prison.

gathered in the Merchants' Exchange Hall this morning. The passage of the grain inspection bill which takes the inspection of grain out of the hands of the Exchange and gives it to the Railroad Commissioners, is looked upon as a direct blow at St. Louis, and some of the merchants go so far as to say that the bill was passed in the interest of Chicago.

In reply to the arguments in favor of the existing system, Senator Taggard is reported to have said: "Why, under the system which you now have you have drawn corn from Northern Missouri to St. Louis which belonged to Chicago. You had no right to it; it was the property of Chicago; but you got it on account of your inspection system."

Municipal Scandal in Baltimore That Includes the Whole Machine. ISPECIAL TRLEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. BALTIMORE, May 17 .- About two weeks ago Councilman McIntyre, of the Eleventh ward, shook up the politicians by charging in the first branch of the City Council that an attempt had been made to bribe several members of that body in the interest of the Washington Automatic Gaslight Company. An investigating committee was appointed before which all the parties concerned were summoned to appear. The fraud was brought to light through the introduction of an ordinance to give the contract for at-tending to the gasoline lamps in the city to the lowest bidder. Heretofore the contract has been awarded by an ordinance, and the price paid was $14 per lamp. There are in all about 900 lamps. ON THE PROHIBITORY QUESTION. Steps Taken Testerday to Get Together Before June 18.

THE PIRST NATIVE HINDOO MISSIONARY Pride in Pessessing.

The Synod of Tarentum has a double inerest. Mooted reunion of factions is one phase. A disposition to take a hand in government is another. Particularly an effort to patch things up and vote for prohibition seems to be the plan. The long-existing factional controversy in the Reformed Presbyterian Church is truly nearing a conciliatory focus, as was intimated in these columns yesterday, and the conference now in session at Tarentum bore further evidence at yesterday's meet-A very flattering flock of people-representatives of both sides-were in attendance, and a most mutual feeling of congeniality prevailed as regards the question of re-uniting forces and abolishing the old fogy ideas which have existed since 1833. Yesterday's action by the Synod was to further this object, and arrive at some definite result. At the morning session Rev. S. M. Ramsey, of New York State, presided. General business was discussed, and various

The members on the two committees were Rev. Dr. Morton, Rey. John Alford and Elder J. N. Houston for the General Synod. while Rev. H. H. George, Rev. W. R. Laird and Elder McCaulis acted for the smaller Synod.

The result was that, in substance, the only point of difference was "the practical ap-plication of the testimony of the church to the United States Government, the Synod allowing its members to vote, while the General Synod did not."

Since the prohibition question is so pertinent, many of the Covenanters want to vote, and committees were recommended to be appointed yesterday to hold a convention of the two synods, and the appointment of a larger number of representatives from each contingent on a side. THEY WILL PRATERNIZE.

It was also favorably considered to appoint fraternal delegates to meet at Belle Center on June 5 next, where a general and final meeting will be held prior to the prohibitory election. After this meeting it was resolved that the next conference be held in Pittaburg in May 1890 or any that city Pittsburg in May, 1890, or any 6 er city the committee may concur upon.

Rev. Dr. Steel, of Philadelphia, read a paper on foreign missions and the encouraging results accruing from the work of Rev. W. Scott, who is located at Roorkee, credit of sending out the first native mis-

Dr. Irwin objected, but the Coroner held him, Dr. Hance and Dr. Ferguson in $2,500 each to await the inquest, which will be held next week. The Coroner ordered another autopsy to be held.

After the afternoon services, ending in prayer, an evening's entertainment took place for the benefit of visiting delegates. Recitations, dialogues, music and refreshments were indulged in, while interesting talks were made by Rev. Prof. Steel and Rev. John Graham, both of Philadelphia, and Rev. J. F. Morton, of Ohio. Rev. A BIG FIGHT.

The Republican County Primaries to be Held To-Day-A Struggle for Supremncy on the Committees.

The battle for supremacy between the two Republican leaders of Western Pennsylva-nia, Messra. Magee and Quay, will occur this afternoon. The Pittsburg end of it has been before written up. One of the main issues will be the rules governing the nomi-nations of candidates for offices in Allegheny county. The new rules, which were draited by leading members of the committee, are evidently very objectionable to Mr. Quay, as he has instructed his friends to elect delegates to the County Committee to knock them out.

The work was done very quietly by the party leaders, and the ward workers and voters do not yet thoroughly understand the system. Heretofore there was one delegate from each precinct in the County Committee. The next committee will be composed of less members, and two conventions will be necessary to nominate a candidate for any county office.

This has stirred up some ward politicians, who claim that the leaders cannot have everything that the leaders cannot have everything their own way, and they will make an effort to enter the convention, and if they secure 19 votes, will make things exceedingly warm for the people who arranged the matter without consulting them. It will be a very difficult task, however, to knock the setup. Out. Delinquent Tax Collector of Reformed Church." The fight in the First Legislative district, The fight in the First Legislative district, which comprises the First, Third, Fourth, Seventh, Eighth, Twelith and Thirteenth wards, Allegheny, is very intricate. There are two slates, one of which is called the Quay and the other the Magee; but five persons figure on both slates, and are therefore "sure winners." A strong effort, and in fact the main fight, seems to be on John W. Neeb, one of the best known German Republicans in the two cities. He has not declared in favor of either of the two leaders, but is classed as an anti-Quay man. His friends say he cannot be defeated, as the majority of the voters of the First district are Germans, and are opposed to Quay, who are Germans, and are opposed to Quay, who is personally a Prohibitionist, and was the man who pushed the matter of submitting the amendment to the Constitution of the State. The two slates in this district are

THIRTY MEN MISSING

A Full Account of the Wreck of the Pacific Steamer Alaskan.

THE STORY OF THE CAPTAIN.

He Remained Upon the Ship Until it Sank Beneath the Waves.

EVERY EFFORT TO SAVE THE VESSEL

A Number of the Sailers Refused to Take to the Boats and Batts.

Thirty of the officers and crew of the wrecked steamer Alaskan have not been accounted for, and are probably lost. Captain Howes has arrived at Portland, and gives his story of the disaster. Every effort was made to save the vessel, and the captain remained with her until she sank beneath the waves.

PORTLAND, ORE., May 17 .- Captain R. F. Howes, of the foundered steamer Alaskan, and First Officer Wood, have arrived here on the steamship Columbia. The Alaskan sailed for San Francisco from Astoria last Saturday noon and crossed the Columbia river bar safely, headed down the coast on Sunday forencon. A very heavy gale sprang up, which soon increased to a terrible storm and the sea ran very high, and the vessel began laboring very heavily. In the afternoon the steamer strained and began taking water. The pumps were kept going constantly, the officers and crew vainly endeavoring to stop the leak by stuffing in blankets and bedding. The storm

The engines were stopped, and the huge vessel pitched and tossed at the mercy of the elements. The pumps could not be worked and the vessel began filling. However, Captain Howes gave orders for all to stay by the vessel, in hopes the storm would soon abate. About 12 o'clock Monday night it was evident that the steamer would soon founder.

Captain Howes then gave orders to launch the life boats and rafts. All the boats were launched but one, which crushed against the side of the steamer. The men behaved well, acting with coolness and obeying orders promptly. There were 44 men on board the vessel and three stowaways. All but seven or eight put on life-preservers, got into the boats and on life rafts and drifted away.

Some refused to leave the steamer at all, preferring to take desperate chances on board rather than commit themselves to the hungry waves. At 2:15 A. M. Monday the steamer took a plunge and went down stem first. Captain Howes gallantly stayed with the vessel until she sunk, and clinging to a portion of the wreckage, floated away. RESCUE OF THE CAPTAIN. He was afterward picked up by those on one of the rafts. After 33 hours he and others were picked up by the tug Vigilante.

The same vessel also picked up the first officer, G. W. Wood, T. Wallace, W. Collins, B. Barnhold, J. Monaghan, J. W.
Brown, W. Alfred Johnson, John Welch and Geo. Shilderup, the latter person had a leg broken by the falling of the timbers, be-fore leaving the steamer, and died soon after being picked up by the Vigilante.

John Welch was found dead on a piece of wreekage clinging to some ropes. Chief Engineer Swain was washed off one of the rafts soon after leaving the sinking vessel and is known to be lost. Among those whom refused to leave the Alaskan and certainly lost, were Albert Bahles, steward; S. T. Week, second officer; W. Jenney, a seaman. Thirty remain yet unaccounted for, whose fate is unknown at present.

The tug Vigilante, after picking up those mentioned, cruised about the scene of the disaster for over 12 hours, but saw no signs of the others. At the time the vessel foundered a fearful storm prevailed, and the rain descended in torrents. There is little hope of the other part of the crew escaping. Efforts are being made to find them or asc tain their fate. LOOKING FOR SURVIVORS. The United States lighthouse tender Manzanitza, now on the southern coast, is cruising about looking for the survivors, if any. Cape Blanco is also 200 miles south of the mouth of the Columbia river, on the coast of Oregon, and is only a short distance from the north port of Cape Orford. Near as can be ascertained the disaster occurred about 18 miles off the cape.

The tug Vigilante saw a number of rockets from the Alaskan a short time before the vessel foundered and Cantain House as we vessel foundered, and Captain Howes says he saw the tug lights quite plainly, but the vessel was some distance away and could render no assistance amidst the howling storm. The Vigilante brought the survivors up to the mouth of the Columbia, and
